Have you ever shipped a switch to Sao Paulo?

09/11/2020 13:00 - 13:30 Main Stage

For most you, operating a network, shipping equipment and ordering infrastructure is easy. But how does that scale when you operate 90+ PoPs on all continents (except Antarctica) with a team of less than 20 engineers? This talk gives an insight into the operational, organizational and human challenges we encountered on our journey.

Speaker

Theo Voss

Theo Voss, 30 years old. From Berlin, but living in Vienna. Head of Network Engineering at Anexia, where my team and I build and run a global 100G network with 90+ PoPs serving 100k+ customers. I have a strong background in the ISP & hosting business, being Teamlead Network at SysEleven before. I'm tremendously curious, eager to explore new technology, and also a passionate traveler and pilot.
